Canadian Legion Observes Anniversary of Battle of Vimy

Members and Wives Enjoy Supper and Program on Saturday Night—Incidents of Famous Battle Recalled.

Vimy anniversary was celebrated by the Canadian Legion in the I.O.O.F. hall on Saturday evening by a supper and program, presided over by Bert Garrett, president.

The Legion Auxiliary ladies provided the menu, which was thoroughly enjoyed, and those taking part in the program were: Pres. Garrett, toast to "The King," Col. R. F. Barnes, who responded to the toast to "The King," C. F. Foundas, who proposed the toast to "The Ladies," responded to by Mrs. Hulbert, president of the Auxiliary, and Sidney C. Short, who proposed the toast to "The Visitors."

The musical items were contributed by Mrs. W. Williams, singing "Danny Boy"; Mrs. W. Martland, with "Break the News to Mother"; J. Anderson, accordion solos and community songs; Archie McCulloch, comic songs; C. F. Foundas, comic songs; William Lewis, song; Pirates Orchestra, general selections. About a hundred ex-service men and wives were present.

EASTER HOLIDAYS

Official information from the school board states that schools will close today for Easter holidays and re-open on Monday, April 25.

The post-office will be open for one hour on Good Friday and Easter Monday, 9 to 10 a.m. each day.

Stores and offices will close on Good Friday, and on Easter Monday, though not definitely agreed, it is likely all will close.

Death Comes to Former Coleman Resident

Father of Fire Boss Gus James Died at Victoria—Was Church Elder Here for Many Years.

The death of Mr. Henry James occurred on April 1st, at St. Joseph's hospital in Victoria. Mr. James was an old-time resident of Coleman, coming here thirty-three years ago from Tredgegar, Monmouthshire. He was an active church worker and was an elder in the United church for many years. He was employed at the International Mine and was superintendent of the mine rescue car prior to his leaving for the Coast twenty years ago. About three years ago he visited his son I. A. James here in Coleman and renewed acquaintance with old friends. Always an active man and enjoying good health, his illness and death came as a shock to his relatives and friends. He is survived by four sons and one daughter, his wife having predeceased him "four years ago. Mr. and Mrs. I. A. James returned to Coleman on Thursday, after spending the past two weeks at Victoria, having been called there owing to his father's illness.

$10,000 CONTEST CLOSES APRIL 16

Widespread interest has been aroused in the $10,000 essay prize contest launched by the Canadian General Electric Company on March 1, according to reports from the company on the number of entries received to date.

Designed to create a greater public consciousness of the need of electrical servants and the meaning of a scientifically-planned home, the contest continues until April 16. Secure entry form NOW from Pattinson's Hardware, C.G.E. Dealers for The Pass.

OWN SALARIES CUT BY CITY OFFICIALS ON EVE OF APRIL 1

TORONTO—City Council members yesterday reduced their own salaries in an effort to lower the 1938 tax rate. A motion calling for the reduction, introduced by Alderman Stewart Smith, was adopted by a 12-10 vote.

Mayor Ralph Day's salary was cut from $11,500 to $10,000, while salaries of controllers were dropped to $4,000 from $5,000. Aldermen were cut from $1,200 to $1,000. The Mayor and the four members of the Board of Control voted against the motion.

Cost of operating motorcars for the Council was cut from $14,000 to $10,000.

Controller William Wadsworth introduced the 1938 budget calling for a tax levy of 36.10 mills.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Sartoris Lumber Yard under the management of Mr. Dunkley has been re-opened, on Main Street, and orders for building material will be given prompt attention. Information and estimates gladly furnished.

The interior of the Bank of Commerce building has received a spring cleaning and a coat of paint, under the expert hands of Andy Thorner, more readily known as "Popeye the Painter."

Timber is becoming scarce, but the family tree continues to flourish.

Easter

TO CHILDREN
Easter means Bunnies, Colored Eggs, New Clothes.

To older people it means joy after the tragedy of the Crucifixion, awakening of new hopes, hopes of better things.

Associated with Easter is the arrival of Spring, and the reawakening of natural life after its winter's sleep.

Anglican Church Still Short of Funds

Continued Effort Urged to Secure Financial Support from All Church Members.

Following the service on Sunday evening at St. Alban's church, a meeting of parishioners was held in the hall, about fifty being present. Rev. R. Axon, rural dean, of Macleod, presided.

Reports of the canvassing committee showed that some had not completed their work, but those who had reported a collection of about $110. This was far short of the amount required to wipe out the arrears of stipend to Rev. A. S. Partington, who will leave at the end of the month for Creston parish.

Some criticism was voiced by members of the congregation at the arrears having been allowed to accumulate, as they felt that had it been more generally known, steps would have been taken to raise funds long before this particular time.

It was decided that reports would be asked from vestry members who had not completed their work, and a meeting held to ascertain the exact amount raised. Also steps would be taken to see that a satisfactory settlement was made with Mr. Partington.

The ladies reported on various efforts made by teas, sales and other means to raise money. No definite steps were taken towards arranging for a successor to Mr. Partington, and this matter will be discussed at the next meeting, when results are ascertained of the complete canvass.

MAKING CANADA

A BETTER PLACE IN WHICH TO LIVE AND WORK

A Series of Letters from Distinguished Canadians on Vital Problems Affecting the Future Welfare of Canada

Special Written for Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association

Geo. W. James, Esq., President Canadian Weekly Newspaper Association, Bowmanville, Ontario.

Dear Sir:—In your letter of the 12th July, you inform me that the Canadian Weekly Newspaper Association is striving to promote sane thinking and more wholesome living in Canada and you ask for my advice on this subject.

I cannot but congratulate the Association on their laudable endeavor, and feel confident it will commend itself to all who have at heart the welfare of our country.

The characteristic feature of our age is that the ordinary source of inspiration for the multitude is derived from the newspaper. Editors have therefore a mighty power for good at their command and since you ask my advice, I would recommend that they should impress upon their readers that the disregard of the Christian precepts has had a disastrous effect on society and is, in a large measure, the cause of the present universal social and economic disorder. I would suggest that they should lay stress on the importance of fostering the Christian spirit in the family circle.

The family is rightly regarded as the cradle of society. The training of the children is a duty which nature as well as religion imposes upon the parents. If in their early years, children find within the walls of their homes the rule of an upright life and the discipline of the Christian virtues, the future welfare of our country is assured.

Believe me, Yours sincerely, J. M. R. VILLENEUVE, O.M.I., Archbishop of Quebec.

ON WAY HOME FROM CALIFORNIA

Writing from Santa Monica, A. M. Morrison states: "Our sojourn here is coming near an end and we will be leaving on April 16, travelling via Grand Canyon, Salt Lake and Glacier Park. We expect to be home by the end of the month."

Mr. and Mrs. Morrison left here early in December to spend the winter in the south for the benefit of Mr. Morrison's health. Both he and Mrs. Morrison will be welcomed back to Coleman. They are residents of many years here and have always been active in local affairs.

Hillcrest Mines Carrying On As Usual

Expected That Re-Organization Will Benefit Company and Development Will Proceed.

Though the first news created considerable agitation concerning the voluntary liquidation of Hillcrest Collieries Ltd., mine-workers are reassured that work will continue as usual, and a spirit of co-operation is prevalent between the men and the company.

No official information on the re-organized company's policy has been given for publication. The news first appeared in the daily newspapers last week, following delay in wages being paid on the regular pay-day. It is reported that work is proceeding and that payrolls have been met. The news caused some interruption to local retail business, stating a prominent Hillcrest merchant, but confidence has been restored by reassuring news from company officials. The company is financed largely by eastern capitalists.

ST. ALBAN'S CHURCH NOTES

From 12 noon till 3 p.m. Good Friday services will be held in St. Alban's church. They are open to all who care to attend, and doubtless many will avail themselves of the opportunity to attend for at least part of the time.

Easter services at St. Alban's will be: Holy communion at 7 a.m., choral communion at 11:15 a.m., bible class at 3 p.m.

St. Paul's United Church

Service at 7:30 p.m. Good Friday, which all members and adherents are asked to attend.

Easter Sunday—At 10:45 a.m. the service will begin in order to close before the children begin to arrive for Sunday school. Special music, Miss Freda Antrobus, soloist. All communicant members are asked to make their communion. The evening service as usual.

It is hoped that last year's experience may be repeated both in attendance and the flowers sent for decoration.

Special Good Friday Service At Salvation Army

Captain Hewitt wishes to announce that a special Easter Tableau will be presented in the Salvation Army hall at 10:45 a.m. Good Friday.

Singing by the girls group and suitable portrayal of the scenes of crucifixion, by lantern, will be rendered.

This invitation is extended to strangers, friends and Salvationists.

On Good Friday morning in the Salvation Army hall, an Easter tableau, "From Olivet to Calvary," illustrated by beautifully colored lantern slides, will be presented. There will be appropriate singing by the girls group.

Canadians Will Launch Big Drive For Team Funds

$1000 Reserve Fund Needed to Finance Team Through Season

Coleman Canadians' executive will launch a drive for funds next week when tickets will go on sale throughout the Pass on an expensive refrigerator, a handsome chestfield and a number of season tickets for next year's games. Tickets are 50c each. As has been stated on several occasions the club needs a reserve fund of $1000 to carry it through the playing season, over and above gate receipts. Prizes will be drawn for later in the season, date to be published in The Journal.

Young ladies wishing to sell these tickets at a profit to themselves of 50c per book may secure them from Fred Guernard, club secretary.

Curling Club Smoker on Saturday Evening

Coleman Curling club will wind up the season's activities with a smoker and presentation of prizes in the I.O.O.F. hall on Saturday evening at 8:30.

The McGillivray cup will be presented to Harry Boulton and his rink. Accompanying the trophy will be four silver miniature curling rocks, donated by McGillivray Creek Coal Co. The Merchants Cup and prizes will be awarded to Sam Moores and his youthful rink.

Election of officers for next season will be held as well as a discussion regarding the proposal of Pincher Creek to donate a trophy in the same competition as the Pontiac and Studebaker trophies. Joe Emmerson, president, will preside.

Tickets to the smoker can be secured from any club member.

INTEREST IN HOCKEY FINALS

Several from town are planning on going to Calgary on Saturday to see the second game of the hockey championship finals for the Allan Cup between Trail Smoke-Eaters and Cornwall Flyers. Owing to the heavy sale of seats, only a few were allotted to W. Bell of the Grand Union. Some are taking a chance on buying seats when they get there, but they will certainly have to be very early.

Return railroad fare is $6.75 by rail, leaving Thursday and return ticket the following Tuesday.

FAMOUS ORCHESTRA COMING

Mart Kenney's orchestra from Hotel Vancouver, on their way east to the Royal York Hotel, Toronto, will play in Coleman Community hall on Friday, May 13, their only engagement in this district. The admission will be one dollar each person. There are twelve members in the orchestra, and Miss Georgia Day is the vocalist.

Experience is our best teacher, but we don't realize it until we are too old to learn.

Biting The Hand

There will be few Canadians, in Eastern Canada as well as in the West, who will quarrel with the suggestion that some means should be found or devised to prevent people who have amassed great wealth in Canada from escaping taxation and succession duties by moving to other countries.

There is no suggestion, of course, that the super wealthy should be prohibited from leaving Canada to reside elsewhere should they choose to do so, but it is proposed that some measures should be enacted to require these people to contribute their just share towards the cost of government of the country which has made their wealth possible.

Evading Obligations

The discovery that there are people who have made considerable wealth in this country and are seeking to avoid their obligations by retiring elsewhere and taking their wealth with them, was revealed during discussions in the House of Commons, during which debate the suggestion was made that something should be done to prevent this evasion.

As the Editor of the Western Retailer, official organ of the Retail Merchants' Association in the prairie provinces said in the March issue: "Taxpayers must have been interested when attention was called in the Federal House to the fact that a number of Canada's super wealthy were leaving Canada to reside in the West Indies to enjoy the climate, the scenery, and quite incidentally, to escape taxation. There was a request for legislation to make it impossible for migrants of this kind to escape taxation. No doubt that phase of the subject will be considered further. As the same writer appropriately comments: 'The question as to who should pay the most taxes arises. Surely the super rich should not be evaders. There are many such in Canada and in the U.S.A. who could pay half their income in taxes and still be unable to spend the other half. Yet recent disclosures have shown that they are the very people who, under skilled and no doubt highly paid advice, do evade taxation, succession duties and so forth.'"

Hard On Poorer Taxpayers

It is hard enough for the Dominion and the Provinces to have to lose their rightful and legal income from such sources, but what is worse is the fact that the delinquency of the rich, who by such means escape their obligations, entails severe loss upon the remaining and necessarily poorer taxpayers who are obliged to remain in the country and who can ill afford such additional burden.

The principal point is that those who have become wealthy because of the facilities and opportunities afforded them by the country of their nativity or adoption, as the case may be, have a moral obligation to assist in supporting that country and the people their neighbors who have assisted them in creating a fortune for themselves and their families. If they choose to elude this obligation it is not going too far to say that they are willing to bite the hand that fed them.

Where Is Patriotism?

As the Western Retailer says: "It is disheartening to the struggling business taxpayer to read of these things, knowing that he must pay for their finis and cleaner the example he should set for the rest. Singing 'O Canada' does not necessarily make a man a patriotic citizen or even a good one."

The revelations recently made in the House of Commons do, however, raise in the minds of many, another aspect of the question and that is the burdensome taxation from which all the taxpayers of the country, rich and poor alike are suffering due to over-government which in turn is caused by the existence of too many taxing governmental units for a country of comparatively sparse population and wide extent.

Fact finding bodies and organizations have established without fear of contradiction, that the people of this country are over-governed and it is to be hoped that some of the recommendations which have been made to the Rowell Commission on Dominion-provincial relations in an effort to remedy this condition and relieve the taxpayers of some of the excessive costs of government, will be given very serious consideration.

Worthy of Consideration

Included in these recommendations are proposals for more centralized government, for the merger of some governmental units as well as for more equitable distribution of taxing rights and elimination of much overlapping which must necessarily result from a multiplicity of tax levying bodies.

All of these proposals and possibly others which have not been made direct to the Commission merit pondering and efforts should be made to reduce the tax burden on rich and poor alike if the people of the country are to be given an opportunity of again enjoying a reasonable measure of prosperity.

The fact, however, that the country is over-governed and over-taxed does not relieve those who have become wealthy in this country from their moral, if not legal obligations, to do their part in paying for the cost of government.

Will Go To Gibraltar

British Army's Tallest and Heaviest Officer Takes Command in Fall

The British War Office has appointed Gen. Sir William Edmund Ironside to command Gibraltar—the rock that guards the entrance to the Mediterranean Sea.

The man who once picked out the present Shah of Iran (Persia) from the ranks of his own enlisted men, was appointed governor and commander-in-chief of Gibraltar to continue an outstanding career that has straddled three continents.

The army's tallest and heaviest officer, he stands six feet five, weighs 250 pounds and has sharp, searching eyes. His friends call him "Tiny." He succeeds Gen. Sir Charles Harcourt, whose term at Gibraltar expires in October.

Since 1936 Gen. Ironside has been commander-in-chief of the eastern command—various counties in the east of England.

In 1921 Gen. Ironside, after commanding the North Persian force, had to find a native commander for his levies before going home. With anarchy reigning in Teheran, the capital, the levies formed the only regular army in Persia. The story told in London is that he strode swiftly down the ranks, pausing before a native officer almost as big as himself.

"What's your name," he asked. "Reza Khan, Sir."

"You'll do."

Four years later the intelligence and bravery of Reza Khan, son of a peasant, led him to the Peacock throne vacated by the deposed Shah, Sultan Ahmad.

Gen. Ironside joined the army at 19 and now is 57.

Get Gift Of Flour

Ancient Custom Observed In English Village To Ward Off Curse

An 800-year-old curse lay behind a ceremony held at Tichborne, Eng., in which flour was distributed to 800 villagers of Tichborne, Cheriton and Lavender, in Hampshire.

Sir Anthony Tichborne, 23-year-old holder of an ancient baronetcy, helped to distribute the historic Tichborne "dole" instituted in the 12th Century. Each adult received a gallon of flour; every child half a gallon.

In the 12th Century the aged and ailing Lady Mabella Tichborne crawled around part of the estate while a torch burned. Her husband, Sir Roger de Tichborne, had offered to give to the poor a portion of the produce of the land enclosed by his wife's crawling journey. Lady Mabella vowed if the gifts from the estate were discontinued the Tichborne family would lack male heirs.

"I shall continue the ancient custom," said Sir Anthony at this year's ceremony. "If I fail legend says all sorts of dreadful things will happen to the family."

A Perishable Product

Eggs Will Keep Fresh Only Under Proper Conditions

The Consumer's Guide, published monthly by the Consumers' Bureau of the Agricultural Adjustment Bureau, says this in a recent issue: "Eggs may be fresh when a merchant buys them but they may spoil in a store. Eggs are a perishable product. In order to keep their quality, they must be kept in a cool place. 'Strictly fresh' eggs in a window which is warmed by the sun will not stay strictly fresh very long. Eggs kept under proper conditions for five months might taste 'fresher' than those which have been stored for two days."

Simple menus and easily prepared dishes are something every housewife is looking for. There are times when you want to fuss up and spend time on meals, but that is only occasionally. For day in and day out purposes, unadorned, but tasty and nourishing meals are what the family needs and the cook wants.

Here are some selected luncheon and supper menus which will fill the bill perfectly. They are chosen for their simplicity, tastiness and variety.

On Fridays when, just for a change, we do something that is neither meat nor fish, you'll be glad to have a choice of these three menus which are built around one delicious salad.

1. Buttered Asparagus on Toast
Stewed Tomatoes
Layered Cheese and Apple Salad
Prune Whip

2. Tomato Soup
Whole Bean Muffins
Layered Cheese and Apple Salad
Pineapple Finger Sausage

3. Spanish Omelette
Baking Powder Biscuits
Layered Cheese and Apple Salad
Grapefruit

Layered Cheese and Apple Salad
1 package quick setting lemon jelly powder
1 pint warm water
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 teaspoon salt
1 red apple, cut in 1/2-inch dice
1 teaspoon sugar
1 package (3 ounces) cream cheese
1/2 cup walnut meats, broken

Dissolve jelly powder in warm water. Add 1 tablespoon lemon juice and salt. Chill. Combine apples, sugar, salt and cream cheese in a 1/2-cup lemon juice. When jelly is slightly thickened, fold apples into half of jelly mixture. Turn into mold. Chill until firm. Beat remaining jelly with rotary egg beater until of consistency of whipped cream. Fold in cheese and nuts. Pour over firm first layer. Chill until firm. Serve in squares on crisp lettuce. Garnish with mayonnaise. Serves 8.

Plane Crashes

Accidents Fail To Lessen United States Enthusiasm For Naval Craft

Loss of 11 lives and three $100,000 war planes in mock defence of the Hawaiian Islands failed to lessen United States naval officials' enthusiasm for aircraft.

Despite the tragedies and the fact that six other planes were forced down at sea without damage, a high navy official said the aircraft performed wonderful services in scouting thousands of miles of ocean in all directions.

Six of the victims were missing in a plane which dropped out of a six-plane formation during scouting duty.

Bodies of three other fliers were recovered from a bombing plane which crashed off Oahu Island in a rain squall. Two more bodies were believed in the submerged fuselage. The crew of a third plane, forced down and sunk earlier, was rescued.

Working Toward Her Goal

Germany Aiming 'For Der Tag' And Intends To Win

Once more Germany is arming for "Der Tag" and this time she does not intend to be on the losing side.

She has drawn blueprints for what may turn out to be the most powerful war machine in Europe, and as fast as factory wheels can turn, those paper plans are being transformed into ships, tanks, airplanes and forts.

In the next war Germany's battle front will be as deep as the nation. Women will be subject to conscription under the Defence Act. Every wheat bin, dairy, brewery, electrical shop and even farm animals will be part of the army.

Ladenburg, in his grave, no longer counsels the German general staff of his experiences in the World War, but one idea he offered them persisted. It is the idea of "total-war," totalitarian war—in which every unit of the nation almost down to babies is conscripted in the light of its military functions.

For example, Germany must not think of a horse as an animal that pulls a plow or can be ridden to hounds, but in terms of hauling a gun carriage or carrying a cavalryman.

Foreign observers say that there now has been accumulated a secret war chest of 1,000,000,000 reichsmarks in gold. Mobilization has been worked out to the most minute detail and civilians as well as army reserves will know exactly where to go and what to do when war starts. One phase of her military preparation that Germany cannot keep secret is the elaborate system of "autobahns," high speed federal highways along which troops can move with a speed hitherto unknown to the military mind.

Canton Island

A Washington dispatch says Interior Secretary Ickes has granted a licence to Pan-American Airways to use Canton Island in the south Pacific ocean as an air base. The island's eight miles of lagoon will become a stop on commercial trans-Pacific air transport service between California and Australia.

Canton and nearby Enderbury Islands, both coral atolls, recently were claimed by the United States and placed under supervision of the Interior department by presidential decree. They are approximately 1,850 miles southeast of Hawaii, and are on the air route between Hawaii and New Zealand.

Some Of The Recommendations Of National Employment Inquiry

Following are some of the high-light recommendations of the National Employment Commission:

Creation of an advisory national committee on the tourist trade and measures, such as the promotion of national handicrafts, to make the tourist trade even more profitable than it now is.

Examination of the possibility of allowing income tax exemptions on expenditures made for the replacement of obsolete machinery and equipment in industry, this to promote low-cost production for the retention of export markets.

Establishment of a special labor department bureau for research in connection with the employment of women.

Gas Masks

Gas Bag For British Babies In The Event Of War

A rubber gas bag for babies is the Home Office's latest device to make Great Britain's 40,000,000 inhabitants safe in the event of war.

A spokesman said that babies two years old and under would be provided a rubber fabric bag capable of enclosing their bodies entirely.

The bag has a pump for injecting air through a filter. The pump must be used every 15 minutes.

The spokesman said British has 30,000,000 gas masks, which are being manufactured at the rate of 500,000 a week. They are to be delivered in quantities of 30,000 to municipalities throughout the country.

The masks, however, will not be delivered to the inhabitants unless war becomes imminent. Then, the Home Office has guaranteed, every Briton will get a gas mask within eight hours.

Greater Germany Votes Approval On Austrian Annexation

Berlin. Greater Germany gave Adolf Hitler more than 99 per cent approval of his annexation of Austria in unofficial complete plebiscite returns of 48,799,269 to 452,189.

Voters of expanded Germany marched to the polls Sunday to register their overwhelming support of Austro-German union and to elect a new Hitler-picked reichstag.

Austria herself gave the Fuehrer the vote most nearly unanimous, a majority of 96.7.

Unofficial complete Austrian vote was:

4,270,517, Yes.

11,263, No.

Results in German proper fell only slightly behind Austria's overwhelming affirmation.

Complete official returns gave:

14,528,752, Yes.

449,917, No.

The vote, less than a month after Hitler marched behind his armed forces into Austria, culminated an intense Nazi campaign to win a popular demonstration of support for German expansion.

Though a band of 11,263 Austrians voting "Nein" showed Austrians were not completely Nazified, Hitler evidently was satisfied with the results.

In a nation-wide broadcast he announced: "This hour is the proudest of my life" as the returns poured in a steadily-mounting column of "Ja" votes.

The Fuehrer and his aides received results at the chancellery while crowds gathered around loud-speakers through the reich shouted and sang at the announcement of the results.

In Hitler's birthplace at Braunau, Austria, five "No" votes were cast against 3,321 affirmatives.

Hitler was Germany's happiest man as Propaganda Minister Joseph Goebbels handed him phibiscite return after return in the chancellery.

Assembled about him were the men with whom he fought in closest comradeship for the triumph of Nazism.

They included leaders like Field Marshal Hermann Goering, Rudolf Hess, Hitler's general representative, and Walter Darré, commissar for control of prices. Goebbels sat at a private telephone wire over which the returns were communicated as fast as they became available.

Often he had difficulty in hearing the voice at the other end because, outside the chancellery on the vast Wilhelmplatz, thousands of Berlin residents stood by the hour, shouting.

"We want to see our Fuehrer," "Germans of Austria," he said.

Finally at intervals Hitler appeared on the balcony.

Floodlights shone on his face, which was wreathed with a happy smile. His hand was raised in the Nazi salute.

The anger crowd broke through the cordon of police and surged forward until they stood directly under the balcony.

Standing before a microphone Hitler spoke with deep emotion.

"Germans of Austria," he said, "I had hoped for much from my homeland, but the result of this balloting exceeds all my expectations."

"This ratification of Austro-German union by the whole German people is the highest justification of all my previous actions. This hour is the proudest of my life."

"I think the whole German people but especially the people of my dear homeland."

Jews in Austria as in the rest of Germany were not permitted to vote. The Austrian army voted 53,872 Yes and 66 No.

Solemnly, Hitler cast his own ballot approving the Anschluss in a booth at Amstetten station when his special train arrived from Vienna.

Heinrich Himmler, chief of police, Propaganda Minister Goebbels and Rudolf Hess, minister without portfolio, also voted at the railway station booth.

Canadian Farm Loan Board

Shows More Profit Than Loss Over Eight Year Period

Ottawa. In the eight years since 1930 that the Canadian Farm Loan Board has been operating it has shown profits in five years and losses in three. It was said in a report tabled in the House of Commons by the finance department in answer to questions by J. A. Marshall (S.C., Camrose).

"Exemption from interest payments over a three-year term on $5,000,000 borrowed from the government of Canada is responsible, in part, for profits shown in the years 1931 to 1934 inclusive," the return said.

The board showed a $69,554 loss in the fiscal year ending March 31, 1930, its first year. Then came five years of profits: 1931, $156,423; 1932, $271,322; 1933, $288,844; 1934, $109,630; 1935, $50,392. Losses in 1936 and 1937 were $126,128 and $42,256.

At the end of 1937 the board held lands for sale in Alberta valued at $50,867, exclusive of properties leased with purchase options valued at $21,042.

LATEST OF CHAMBERLAIN

This latest picture of the British Prime Minister, Neville Chamberlain, was taken as he returned to No. 10 Downing Street following a walk in the park.

Chamberlain Expects Soon To Conclude Treaty With Italy

Birmingham. Prime Minister Chamberlain stated that an agreement with Italy, restoring those old friendly relations... which had become almost traditional... would be concluded and published within a short time.

He revealed the government had a plan for compulsory registration in which, until they were recently broken, had lasted so long that they had become almost traditional between our two countries.

"I only ask you to have a little patience, to wait a little longer. I do not think it will be very long before our agreement with Italy is concluded and published."

"Most of us in this room may not approve of dictatorships," he asserted. "But there they are. You cannot remove them."

"We have to live with them and while we must continue to arm until we can get a general agreement to disarm... we should take any and every opportunity to try to remove any legitimate grievances that may exist."

Brushing aside Labor and Liberal claims that his government lacks a concrete foreign policy, Mr. Chamberlain defined the objective as follows: "To maintain peace and give confidence to people if that be possible, so that peace will be maintained, so that they may go about their occupations free of a sense of menace lurking always in the background."

British policy does not seek to divide the world into ideological blocks, he said, characterizing such policy as "dangerous and stupid."

After appealing for patience until conclusion of the Anglo-Italian pact, Chamberlain declared the country would see then whether its criticism had been justified in its criticism.

Turning the nation's resources to construction of weapons of war was "hateful and damnable," but "I cannot shut my eyes to the fact that under the present conditions of the world we have no alternative but to go on with it because it is the very breath of our British freedom which is at stake."

We are determined to see this rearmament program through because it is our best insurance against war... We have already prepared a carefully thought-out scheme of compulsory registration (of manpower) which, in an emergency, could be put into operation.

The method employed by Germany to bring about union with Austria was "extremely distasteful" to the British government, the premier said, adding:

"One result of the shock of the inclusion of Austria in the Reich has been seen in the general desire throughout the country to do something to demonstrate our solidarity."

Lord's Day Act

Changes Made In Senate From Its Original Form

Ottawa. The senate gave third reading to a bill amending the Lord's Day Act. The measure was completely changed, however, from its original form.

When it passed the house the bill would have imposed imprisonment of directors, superintendents or employers who ordered performance of unnecessary work on Sunday.

The senate deleted the jail provisions, then wiped out the personal liability of individuals, and finally made corporations law liable to increased fines up to $2,000 for third and later offences.

Opera House--- Main Street

(Christian Science Monitor)

Many pleasant tales have been told of life in the small towns of the Midwest, before talking pictures and radios had ended their isolation. There was in those days the same need for a community center in every town as there is today. Thus it came about that each dusty Main Street was, sooner or later, dominated by a big square box building, with the words OPERA HOUSE in large block letters over its front entrance.

Our opera house dwarfed the humble stores on either side with its two-storied height. Its walls of brick—instead of the more usual weathered clapboards—added to its prestige, even though the bricks were so soft that they bore the initials of nearly every boy in town.

Of course, the opera house was the only sizable auditorium in town. It was used for church fairs and political rallies. School entertainments filled the big room two or three times each winter. And, at the close of the school year, its plain white walls echoed the applause of townfolk as the graduating class received be-ribboned diplomas. Powdered saw sprinkled on the floor transformed the auditorium into an ideal ballroom. The chairs were marshaled in rows along the walls, or stacked in a corner. If this adaptable floor seemed slippery for more sedate purposes, the circumstance was accepted with good nature.

Our opera house could accommodate any travelling theatrical troupe which was likely to stop in the town. It was equipped with a stage, a heavy curtain (which was rolled up and down on a ponderous wooden roller), and two dressing rooms.

We boys usually were waiting at the railroad station when a show troupe arrived, and watching the unloading of the big trunks, estimating the merit of the show by the bulk of its baggage. If a troupe carried its own dressers, the fact was soon known along Main Street.

Frequently we were hired to distribute handbills about the town, our wage being free admission to the show. Sometimes we would have to wait for our supply of handbills until the town dressmen had brought the trunks from the depot and placed them back stage. On such occasions we roamed about the big hall, and gazed long at the great painted canvas curtain, dimly lighted by ten small kerosene lamps which served as footlights. The scene depicted on the curtain was of a city street, paved with cobblestones. But there was an indefinable quality in the painting, more compelling than the mere lack of animate figures. Our rather vague knowledge of the classics caused us to wonder whether we looked upon "The Last Days of Pompeii" or Goldsmith's "Deserted Village."

The simple dramas and light comedies played there told of life as it was in the world beyond our prairie horizons. New songs were sung for us; new jokes were told us; new visions came to us.

The friendly atmosphere of the old building drew people into closer contact. Certainly the old opera house meant much to the builders of the West!—A. L. B.

Seventeen members of St. Alban's Ladies' Guild were the guests of Mrs. W. B. Steeves, on Thursday evening.

More jars are required by Mrs. G. A. Brown for marmalade which she is making to raise funds for St. Alban's church. Ladies having jars would confer a favor by sending them or notifying Mrs. Brown. She has filled many orders and hopes to turn over a substantial sum towards reducing the debt.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

TO RETAIN membership in a lodge, you pay dues, besides a stiff initiation fee. To retain ownership of your property you pay taxes. To retain membership in a church, you pay anything you like—and some pay nothing! It is interesting in checking census reports, to see the churches to which people claim adherence and which it is presumed baptises, marries and buries them. But searching the lists of those who contribute to church support, one quickly sees that the percentage who give is very small. Salvation may be free, and church services are available to the rich and the poor, without restrictions. That is why many do not value them, and give nothing. But the church is expected to be ready to minister to all when the occasion requires.

"FOR AN insignificant three or four cents a week the local editor gives his readers the product of many hours of news gathering, reading and writing, and costly operation of expensive machines. His one particular disappointment and disillusionment comes from protests of those persons who, with little or no knowledge of the business of publishing a newspaper, maintain that he charges an exorbitant subscription price."

THE FOREGOING was written by the editor of the Dufferin Leader, published at Carman, Man. The writer noticed it in the last issue of The Leader, which by the way carried a heavy volume of local advertising. It is true that many a quarter or half dollar will be spent without a second thought on things of minor value, yet four or five cents a week for something worthwhile from a community standpoint is debated in some people's minds as if they were contemplating a heavy expenditure.

MAYOR PATTINSON and the council are considering further road improvement plans, to continue the work which did so much to alleviating the dust nuisance. It indicates progress and moreover ratepayers see some real benefits for the money paid in taxes. To further evidence the spirit of progress, something should be done towards improving the street lighting system. It is needed, and can be obtained at little additional, if any, extra cost, according to information given to the writer. People are attracted to well lighted areas, and Coleman should lead among the Pass towns.

CONCERN was caused on the assignment of Hillcrest Collieries, last week. All the eggs are in one basket in these towns, therefore any interruption in the mining of coal very quickly brings distress and want to wage-earners and many others. Spasmodic employment in most coal areas makes it difficult for mine-workers to accumulate a surplus to provide against idle days or old age. Employment in Bellevue, Hillcrest and Blairmore has been so intermittent that relief has been extensively sought. It serves to strengthen the claims of those endeavoring to create an eastern market for western coal, that every effort should be used towards impressing Ontario and even Winnipeg people that if they wish to help in providing employment and purchasing power, not only for western mine-workers, but also for themselves, they cannot ignore the claims of Alberta's coal mining industry. There must be a national outlook in matters of this nature.

SUPPORT for Premier Aberhart's Prophetic Bible Institute must be slackening. His trusty lieutenant, Cyril Hutchinson, in a dialogue with the premier on Sunday, said "we do not get enough to pay for heat and light." People in the south were given a direct hint to contribute some more, by the premier. Evidently Calgary is on a par with Coleman in some respects. If Coleman churches were as good at extracting coin from the people as the premier, they would not be so far in the hole. However, persistency brings results, usually.

DISCUSSION HAS arisen in some quarters on a proposal to use the community hall as a club and recreation headquarters, expenses to be met from a small monthly membership fee. With such a club open to everybody in the community, there should be little difficulty in financing it. At 25c per month from an estimated membership of 500, $1500 would be raised annually, and this with other revenues should provide sufficient to keep the place in good shape. The principal items of expense are caretaking, insurance, light, and fuel. Maintenance would have to be provided for, and some additions for club purposes, [non-license, of course]. There are many community activities which might be more generally promoted and the community hall would provide a convenient centre. Funds also might be raised to improve the exterior by stuccoing it and giving it a presentable appearance, adding to the brightness of the business area. With 800 mine workers in Coleman, and others employed in stores and offices the project is well worth while.

Distinction For Cameron School

The 23rd annual report of the Canadian Red Cross Society, Alberta division, states that Cameron school at Coleman is the oldest Junior Red Cross branch in this province, having a 15-year membership. The report states that the school donated 19 pairs of bedroom slippers which had been given to them by a Coleman merchant for that purpose. $1.70 was also donated to the Spanish relief fund. A portfolio was sent to Japan, and from Japan a doll, silks and school work were received by Cameron school. $2 was donated to the American Flood Relief, and $14.51 was sent to provincial headquarters for Red Cross work. This work has been in charge of Miss A. Yuill, principal of Cameron school, who has kept alive in the hearts of her young charges the humane work of the Canadian Red Cross.

The Influence Of The Weekly Press

Last year George W. James, president of Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association, addressed letters to men prominent in business, political and social life of the Dominion, asking if they would give their views on how Canada could be made a better place in which to live and work. He received some very interesting and informative letters in reply, and as they may be of interest to readers of weekly newspapers, The Journal, in common with other member newspapers of the C.W.N.A., is publishing the letters from time to time. They indicate that the influence of the weekly press is of importance in the hundreds of communities throughout Canada, and contain some very interesting viewpoints and suggestions.

Detroit News: At least, a farm bill 121 pages thick would be nice for pressing a wild flower.

If you sit in a draft the doctor may cash it.

Are Life Insurance Funds Invested in Alberta?

Answer.—Yes, to the extent of over Ninety Million Dollars.

Question.—Where are these millions invested?

Answer.—In the cities and towns, villages and country districts of the Province.

Q.—How are these millions invested?

A.—In many worth-while enterprises for the benefit of all the people of Alberta—homes—farms—schools—good roads—local improvements—industries—and transportation systems.

Q.—Then Life Insurance dollars really do "double duty"?

A.—Yes, these dollars not only give financial protection to the women, children and the aged—but they also benefit the general public through the promotion of worthy undertakings.

Q.—Why is it necessary for insurance funds to earn interest?

A.—To secure the reasonable interest return necessary under policy guarantees to meet all obligations at maturity.

Q.—What is the record of Life Insurance in Canada?

A.—Through depressions, epidemics, and wars, Life Insurance has continued to fill every guarantee to policyholders, 100 cents on the dollar.

This is the fifth of a series of messages sponsored by Life Insurance Companies operating in Canada. The sixth, to appear in two weeks' time, will discuss how women and children benefit from Life Insurance.

Canadian Legion
Observes Anniversary

Mr. Garrett in giving the toast to "The King" welcomed the guests and briefly referred to the efforts made by the Legion to secure club premises, and hoped that the next anniversary of Vimy would be observed in their own building.

Col. Barnes in responding to "The King," dealt at some length with the action at Vimy Ridge, giving an outline of the terrain, the general scheme of attack and the six mile advance, which was the maximum of the Canadians in the famous battle which commenced on Easter Day, April 9, 1917. He stated: "The battle was a great triumph for the Canadians. On April 10, 1917, his late majesty, King George V., forwarded the following message to Field Marshal Earl Haig, commander-in-chief of the British forces in France: 'The whole Empire will rejoice at the news of yesterday's successful operations. Canada will be proud that the taking of the coveted Vimy Ridge has fallen to the lot of her troops. I heartily congratulate you and all who have taken part in this splendid achievement.'"

As a tribute to the heroes of Vimy, the speaker concluded with the following lines: "Monuments may rise and tablets be set up to them in their own land;

"But on far off shores there is an abiding monument that no chisel or pen has traced;

It is graven on the living heart of humanity."

Mr. Founds in his toast to "The Ladies" made humorous reference to the first lady, as follows:

"The first lady we read about is Eve, wife of one Adam. They lived alone in a beautiful Nudist colony, surrounded by the birds and the 'bees,' beautiful flowers, trees and fruits, (you get the idea in 'the Blue Lagoon.') Before the arrival of Eve, Adam was the head man and all was serene. The continual contro. very, however, as to who should wear the pants, led to the adoption of fig leaf aprons. Lending something to the theory that Adam was a Scotchman. Since Eve's day there have been many ladies, though some perhaps do not so readily qualify as others."

In conclusion, he stated: "We stand proud in memory of women we have known, comrades of terrible times. For during those days, without you ladies the cause of the Allied Forces was hopeless. And so, comrades, to The Ladies, our mothers, our wives, ladies all."

The program came to a close with a dance shortly before midnight, music being provided by the Pirate's orchestra.

The annual Slat-Glo sale of Coleman Hardware Co. is announced this week, dates from April 14 to 23 inclusive. Special display at the store and special prices feature this sale and customers should take advantage of same.

This is the season for re-painting, decorating and brightening the exterior and interior of buildings. Attention is called to the attractive display advertisement of Sherwin-Williams Paints, for which Excel Builders Supply Co. is the local dealer.

Alex. Easton is open to fill orders for first-class painting, kalsomining and interior decorating. See him in good time, as this is the busy season, and arrangements will be made to suit the convenience of householders.

Harry L. King since September, salesman for Canadian General Electric Co., the local dealer for which is Pattinson's Hardware, left on Friday for Calgary. He was in the Pass for a year, first being with Sentinel Motors. He was quite an accomplished piano player, as well as being a good entertainer with the piano accordion. He played at various social gatherings here, adding to the general enjoyment.

W. H. Chappell, district deputy grand master of Masonic District No. 8, paid official visits during the week to Summit Lodge, Coleman, and Chinook Lodge, Cowley. Several from the Pass towns accompanied him to Cowley. From Coleman Mayor Pattinson, M. W. Cooke and H. T. Halliwell on Monday evening; from Blairmore, Geo. Sangster and S. G. Bannan; from Hillcrest, G. E. Cruickshank, past grand master; while Ed. Donkin, reeve of the village of Frank, upheld the honor of that pioneer metropolis of the Pass.

When Wheat Moved West

OLD ONTARIO AND QUEBEC used to produce the bulk of the Canadian grain crop. But when the prairies were opened up they were found to be better fitted for this type of farming, so they replaced Old Ontario and Quebec as Canada's granary. One result of this is, since the turn of the century, Eastern farms that were better fitted for grain-growing than for anything else have gradually been abandoned. Roofless barns and vacant farm houses on Old Ontario's back concessions show how the tide of grain empire flowed Westward.

MANY EASTERN FARMERS followed the grain into the West. Many others moved into the cities of the East to work in the industries that were growing up there. Workers in the plants of Dominion Textile Company Limited, for instance, have come in great part from the rural areas of Quebec and Eastern Ontario.

SO THIS COMPANY has helped to supply employment in the older parts of Canada for men and women whose occupation was taken away with the great migration of grain farming to the prairies. Dominion Textile Company now employs 7,000 persons, who receive annually a total of $5,000,000 in wages.

Local News

Mrs. Alex. Cornett was hostess at a bridge party at her home on Friday evening. Prize winners were Mrs. H. T. Halliwell and Mrs. A. B. Westworth. Mrs. Cornett will leave shortly for a six months vacation at the coast.

Mrs. Ernie Hill and Mrs. Ferguson were prize-winners at the L.O.B.A. whist drive in the Pythian hall on Wednesday evening. Mrs. D. Gillespie won the travelling prize.

"UNITY—The Plan for Alberta," will be the subject of an address over station CFCN, Calgary, on Tuesday next at 9:45 p.m., by E. W. Brundsen, secretary of the Unity Council.

Many ladies from The Pass towns called at Mrs. Robert Campbell's on Wednesday afternoon, about sixty calling between 3:30 and 6:30 o'clock. Assisting in pouring tea were Mrs. R. P. Borden, Mrs. T. Keith MacLean and Mrs. George Kellock. The young ladies who assisted in serving were the Misses Isabel Atkinson, Muriel Naylor, Isabel McDonald, Marjorie Halliwell, Sheila Devine, Ethel Wilson, Edna Fairhurst, Kathleen Milley, Prue Borden, Winnifred Dunlop and Sheila Gray. Mrs. J. Devine ushered the guests into the tea room. Snapdragons and tulips gave a pretty touch to the rooms.

Elks Travelling Gavel Night

About 55 members of Elks Lodge at Granum and Macleod visited Coleman lodge on Tuesday, as a return visit for Coleman's visit to these places some time ago. A very jolly evening was spent and about midnight the gathering dispersed.

OIL INDUSTRY CARS

HAVE LOW ACCIDENT RATE

Motor vehicles operated by the petroleum industry are involved in one third less accidents than the general accident rate of commercial vehicles, according to a report of the department of accident prevention of the American Petroleum Institute.

Records of 78 oil companies operating 42,554 vehicles in 1936, showed these vehicles travelled 876,617,693 miles during the year with an accident rate of only 1.62 per 100,000 miles of travel. For all types of commercial vehicles, there were 2.32 accidents per 100,000 miles of travel.

The report indicates that the frequency of motor vehicle accidents in the petroleum industry during 1936 showed a small decline as compared with 1935, whereas according to reports of the National Safety Council, motor vehicle accidents for the nation at large showed a sharp increase. —B-40.

THE STRONG RIGHT ARM OF CANADA

RECEIVING deposits or making loans, Canada's banks are dealing largely with other people's money. Parliament has placed the strictest safeguards around the handling of other people's money.

When you deposit, or when you borrow, the strong right arm of the nation itself is thrown about you, for banking is subjected, through The Bank Act, to greater Government regulation, stricter supervision and more penetrating Parliamentary scrutiny than any other business in Canada.

Banks assemble the surplus funds of millions of Canadians, mostly in small sums. Based on these deposits, and their own resources, they make credit available where needed, for agriculture, commerce, industry, lumbering, mining, fishing, transportation, markets, governments, municipalities and individuals.

These are grave responsibilities. In discharging them the banks are well supervised.

Charters of all Canadian banks expire at the end of every ten years; they can be renewed for no more than ten years and then only after the most searching parliamentary investigation of the whole business of banking. Can you name any other form of enterprise in Canada in which every company's charter expires at one time? Or which has to undergo parliamentary investigation as a condition to continuing in business?

Parliament can, of course, amend The Bank Act at any time, but every ten years that Act is thrown open for what is known as the "Decennial Revision". Bank officers are called before the Banking and Commerce Committee of the House of Commons. They are examined and cross-examined by members and every phase of banking is fully disclosed.

It is a large committee which includes many of the ablest minds in Parliament. Every province and every political party is represented on it, so that Canadians do not lack in any sense for the most penetrating examination of the business of banking.

Canadians as a people thus regulate the business of banking through their elected representatives. Into The Bank Act, by reason of the work of this Committee over the years, have been built all of the safeguards prompted by experience.

In addition, Canada's chartered banks are supervised in various other ways and operate under almost continuous scrutiny. Shareholders appoint their own auditors—chartered accountants—who closely examine each bank's affairs.

Then there is an Inspector General of Banks, an officer under the Minister of Finance, whose duty it is to keep throughout the year a vigilant eye upon banking operations. He has access to all bank records.

Banks have to make statutory returns to the Minister of Finance and to the Bank of Canada, periodically. Heavy penalties are provided for neglect to make them or if they contain falsity or deceit.

Each month they must report to the Government the total of loans made to bank directors or to firms in which they are partners, and of loans which directors guarantee. The return of January 31st, 1938, shows that the total of such loans does not amount to more than 1/98th part of the total bank loans.

There is no "money monopoly" in banking. Any group of responsible people who will get $50,000 capital subscribed and half of it paid up, and who fulfil the requirements of The Bank Act, can start a bank. The requirements are devised to safeguard the people against fly-by-night promoters.

Up till 1934 chartered banks issued their own notes to the amount of their paid-up capital and might, on occasion, exceed that sum under definite and rigid legal limits.

In establishing the Bank of Canada, Parliament provided that for ten years from and including 1936, there should be a steady year by year reduction in the note circulation of the chartered banks.

We can issue our own notes now only up to 85 per cent. of our paid-up capital. Each year, as this reduction takes place, the note issue of the Bank of Canada increases.

Thus it must be seen that banks have never had an unlimited power to issue notes—they have always been definitely restricted by Parliament, with heavy fines as penalties for any breach of these restrictions.

There is no mystery about the work of Canada's chartered banks—their doings are an open book to the Dominion Government, through the Minister of Finance, his officers, and the Bank of Canada.

The chartered banks are controlled by specific laws, regulations and restrictions designed for your protection as depositor, note-holder or borrower. Their work is to safeguard the thrifty, promote the flow of trade and commerce and to facilitate the transfer of goods and services.

Country Is Primitive

Albania Has No Railways And Few Good Roads

When Countess Apponyi arrives King Zog of Albania this spring, she will step from the 20th century atmosphere of Budapest, Vienna and Paris to the primitive conditions of the Albanian capital. She will share the newest throne in Europe and rule over a country of a million people, hundreds of whom are killed by blood feuds which have lasted for generations.

Albania has no equivalent in Europe. There are no railways, few good roads, communication is still predominantly by mule track, and despite King Zog's attempt to modernize his mountainous kingdom, only faint traces of western influence are to be found in the major cities of Tirana, Durazzo and Scutari. The capital Tirana, largest town in the country, has barely a population of 30,000.

Albania remains the only country in Europe whose telephone system is not linked with the international lines.

Although women are safe anywhere in Albania, they are rarely seen in the street, and most of them are veiled. They cook for their husbands and for their husbands' guests, but they do not eat at the same table. Montreal Star.

Issues Warning

Say No Jobs Open At Present In Northern Mining Camps

Hon. T. A. Crear, minister of natural resources, issued a warning to men contemplating seeking work in the Northwest Territories and said there are no jobs open at present in the mining camps in the Yellowknife district, north of Great Slave Lake, 600 miles north of Edmonton.

Having his advice on information received from the district agent of the Mackenzie district and from the sub-joint recorder at Yellowknife, the minister said forecast increase in mining activity at Yellowknife would not result in immediate employment until possibly late in June.

The department was discouraging men from going to Yellowknife or elsewhere in the Territories in search of work because the mining companies were making their own arrangements outside and taking in only those for whom they could assume full responsibility, Mr. Crear said.

The body temperature of a person living in the extreme cold of the far north is almost identical with that of one who resides in the "steaming tropics."

Motor Car Of The Air

British Designer Producing An Aeroplane With All The Comforts Of A Motor Car

Secret tests have been carried out at the Barton airfield, near Manchester, of a new type of airplane, described as "the motor car of the air," which is to be produced by a Manchester firm and marketed at a price under £600. Equipped with an 80 h.p. engine, the plane is built almost entirely of reinforced wood, and is being designed to interest the Australian farmer, whose nearest neighbor may be 200 miles away.

The object of the designer, Mr. Norman Sykes, has been to produce an airplane with the comfort and facilities of a motor car. It has a large door on each side of the cabin, easily entered from the ground. Inside the cabin one finds the controls, seating, windows, and rear-visibility mirror exactly as in a car. Turning on the ground or in the air is accomplished by using a steering wheel. The landing wheels are fitted with brakes operated by a foot pedal. The wing is fitted with air-brakes, or "flaps," worked by a hand lever similar to the hand brake of a car. Friction devices have been introduced which, once the craft has been put on its course, lock the controls, allowing the pilot to relax. Industrial Britain.

A Crucial Point

Says Canada Is Suffering From Growing Pains Under New Conditions

Premier T. D. Pattullo of British Columbia said in an address to the Empire Club of Toronto that Canada has reached a crucial point in her history.

"Notwithstanding our favorable physical position and strong vigorous people, Canada is suffering from growing pains under new conditions and demands consequent upon economic and social changes," he said.

"It is necessary that remedial measures be applied in order that all parts of the Dominion comprising confederation may prosper individually and collectively."

Confederation as conceived by the men who brought it into being "seems threatened by discussion, misunderstanding and sectional determinations," said Premier Pattullo suggested existing differences of opinion were less than those prevailing between the Fathers of Confederation themselves.

FLIN FLON

"The Story of Its Finding and Position To-day"

By PRATT KUHN

"BING"—THE FIRE DOG OF FLIN FLON

Just a bouncing Boston Bull, white muzzle, chest and paws, is "Bing" of Flin Flon, but he's a self-taught fireman, believe it or not.

He was born in 1932 and ever since he was a half grown pup has attended every fire drill and every fire, summer or winter.

They use a siren for a fire call in Flin Flon and they also use it to announce blazes in the open pit mine. "Bing" will be on hand like a flash from a gun on a fire signal, but disconcertingly refuses to badge for a blast call. How does he know the difference?

He has established a patrol route of his own which extends a block down the main street, across and up the other side, and this is why he's always on hand before even the firemen when a fire call sounds, because the hall is just at the end of the main street. He climbs to the highest spot on the engine and hangs on.

"Bing" knows every fireman and policeman. He knows every piece of apparatus on the motorized engine and it's a scream to see him help pull the hose off the reels, bounding and barking in great excitement.

Here's something you'd hardly believe. This dog can catch the fire truck going about 10 miles an hour, spring on the rear step and balance himself with paws around the upright post just like a fireman.

The second show in the local theatre starts at 9 p.m., so after keeping order till that time, "Bing" calls it a day, goes to the fire hall, and Chief Otto O. Klutz escorts him to the home of his owner, Mr. J. D. McMartin, where "Bing" barks a good night. This has been going on for years.

But let the siren sound in the night and over McMartin has got to get out of bed pronto or "Bing" would go through a window to attend the fire.

In some strange fashion he knows Sundays and never appears at the theatre hall, but does hunt for a driver named "Nick," who once befriended "Bing" by taking him home after a dog fight.

He puts the works on Nick for a drive to Phantom Lake, a few miles from Flin Flon, where there's a good beach and bathing. Arrived there, "Bing" takes his turn diving with the boys and girls of the 16-foot beach.

All of the 7,000 residents in Flin Flon, I think know "Bing," judging by the question I was asked when I was asked, I myself, met him at a small fire in the muskrat just outside town when an hour after I arrived there.

Following the reels and the crowd, "Bing" elms a ladder to follow the fire hose over freight cars.

"Bing"—the fire dog of Flin Flon—waits for Chief Otto O. Klutz to get aboard. Chief Klutz came from down Kitchener, Ont., way, and this is a striking likeness of him standing in front of the fire truck.

Awarded McKee Trophy

Romeo Vachon Honored For Services To Canadian Aviation

A flyer since the early 1920's and instrumental in developing air services along the north shore of the Gulf of St. Lawrence in recent years, Romeo Vachon was awarded the McKee trophy for service to Canadian aviation during 1937.

In making the announcement, Defence Minister Ian MacKenzie said Vachon "throughout his career has been outstanding in his dual capacity of pilot and air engineer."

"It was due to his foresight and administrative ability that there exists to-day the efficient and necessary air service along the north shore of the Gulf of St. Lawrence," the minister added.

"Mr. Vachon's qualification for the award is not dependent on any spectacular feat in aviation but on the more solid basis of years of untiring effort which has earned the admiration and high regard of everyone connected with aviation in Canada."

The Metropolitan Museum of Art, in New York City, has one of the finest collections of jade in the world.

Employment for nearly 600,000 persons normally is provided by the railroads of Great Britain.

Termites, or white ants, are not true ants and are in no way related to them.

I saw this dog jumping through the water from the pumper, and when it caught him full on he rolled like a rubber ball. Back he came and the transformation from white to black as he was covered with mud, torn up by the hose, and reversal black to white as he dripped back through the water, was about as funny as anything I'd seen. My enquiries then and later form the story above.

"Bing" is a ladies' man, attends all girls' softball games, and has been elected an honorary member of one of the clubs.

Flin Flon is not a company town, but has been mightily well-treated by the mining company after which it is named. Schools, skating and curling rinks, community hall, etc., are, according to the residents largely a contribution of the company, but there seems to be no air of condescension about it, but simply good neighborliness.

I like Flin Flon and the people I met and I like the spirit of the place. Too had there's not room or employment for 7,000 more people.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

APRIL 17

THE VICTORIOUS SERVANT (EASTER)

Golden text: This Jesus did God raise up, whereof we all are witnesses. Acts 2:32. Lesson: Acts 2:23-36. Devotional reading: Philippians 2: 5-10.

Explanations And Comments

Peter's Proclamation of the Crucifixion and Resurrection of Christ, Acts 2:22-24. Last week we heard Jesus tell his disciples that death by crucifixion was to be his portion, and his head Peter rebuke him, saying (Mt. 16:22) "Be it far from thee, Lord; this shall never be unto thee." Now the cruel death has taken place, and Peter has taken up his cross and is following after Christ; giving no thought to his own safety; he is thinking only of his Lord and his Lord's work. His bold words uttered at Pentecost begin with Jesus a Man approved of God, Jesus of Nazareth, but they end with Jesus as Lord of the Church.

Jesus had wrought many wonders of which they themselves were witnesses, and his hearers said: "They had crucified and slain Jesus, and in accordance with God's will, even his head Peter rebuke him, saying (Mt. 16:22) "Be it far from thee, Lord; this shall never be unto thee." Now the cruel death has taken place, and Peter has taken up his cross and is following after Christ; giving no thought to his own safety; he is thinking only of his Lord and his Lord's work. His bold words uttered at Pentecost begin with Jesus a Man approved of God, Jesus of Nazareth, but they end with Jesus as Lord of the Church.

Peter's Arguments in Proof of Christ's Resurrection, Acts 2:25-36. Peter's words, quoted in our lesson, ascribing to the words a prophetic meaning. David had died and been buried, and his tomb was empty, therefore his body had all come back and it was not of himself that he had risen, but of the resurrection of Christ, when he said (Ps. 16: 10).

For thou wilt not leave my soul to Sheol. Neither wilt thou suffer thy holy one to see corruption.

"The Psalmist's thoughts carried him beyond mere temporal deliverance, beyond the changes and chances of this mortal life, to the assurance of a union with God, which death could not dissolve; while as Christians we read with Peter a deeper and fuller meaning still in the words as we recall the life, death, resurrection and ascension of Christ."

Gardening

There are hundreds of annual flowers which may be satisfactorily planted by the person who is not going to the garden to plant them. These annuals will make their full growth in a few weeks and bloom profusely from the time they are sown. Vegetable gardens, too, can be developed in a few weeks and will give ample return in the next year.

Even a fair layout of grounds can be carried out by a tenant. Quick growing grass will make a very fine lawn in less than six weeks and one infinitely better than a patch of permanent shrubbery and climbers. A perennial of any good seed catalogue will do as well as many bushy annuals among the flowers and some climbers which will grow up to 20 feet in a few months. There are at least a score of big, bushy annuals which reach a height of from four to seven feet and can be used for screening just as effectively as tall, slower growing shrubs.

The first of the garden peas, leaf lettuce, radish and spinach will be among the earliest vegetables sown. These may be planted as soon as the ground is fit to work. All of the first named seeds should be sown at least three times, at intervals of ten days so that there will be a succession of vegetables. The second sowing will be carrots, beets, onions, potatoes, etc., which can stand a little frost, and then beans, corn and tomato, cabbage and cauliflower plants, etc., which will stand a little frost. Final sowing or planting will be those hot weather vegetables like lima beans, squash, melons, etc., and pepper plants, cucumber, melons and similar things. A constantly cultivated garden will soon be affected by drought, particularly after each shower. With this string of the top soil prevents evaporation of moisture and it also keeps down those robbers of plant food and water-works. Especially during the early part of the season is cultivation necessary, and more particularly after each shower. With some of the many hand, horse or tractor-drawn garden cultivators on the market, this task is done quickly and without the old time back-ache.

Build Air Ports

British To Spend Large Sums For Construction Of Airports

Approximately 10 per cent. of the £103,500,000 ($514,912,500) 1938 air budget will be utilized for immediate construction of airports and other air force establishments for the Royal Air Force, it was announced.

Plans include concrete buildings to house officers and men, hangars of concrete with special anti-aircraft defences, and underground fuel storage tanks. Construction of new bases will also involve provision of extensive gas, electric, and water facilities and the building of roads.

Although motorcycles did not attain the peak of their popularity until 1912, the first examples of them related in France and Germany as early as 1885.

Shipment Has Been Stopped

United States Not Letting Germany Have Helium Gas

A sudden change of mind of the American government has brought about a new situation on the question of helium and its export. Until recently we understood that authorization had been given by Congress for the delivery to the German Zeppelin Company, of which Herman Wilhelm Goering, air minister and Nazi No. 2, is a member, of 17,800,000 cubic feet of helium for use in the new dirigible constructed by Germany to replace the ill-fated Hindenburg which exploded with heavy loss of life at Lakehurst. Newest dispatches from Washington reveal that Secretary Ickes has blocked the shipment, despite the fact that tank ships from Germany are docked on the Texas coast in the danger of being taken away the expected supply.

So far, the only known supply of helium, a non-inflammable gas, without which dirigible construction and flying are foolhardy, is to be found only in the United States, which thus controls the safe lighter-than-air flying of all the nations on earth.

A spirit of international generosity, the United States has expressed willingness to share its helium supply so as to further the commercial and industrial enterprises of other nations. Germany particularly. The latest development is interpreted in Washington as arising from the government's failure to receive satisfactory terms for the sale of helium that the helium will not be used for military purposes but will be devoted only to commercial and industrial and medical uses.

Repercussions of the Nazi coup in Austria are indicated in the report that there is a growing disinclination on the part of the United States navy to complete negotiations with Germany to permit the new dirigible to use the navy's mooring mast at Lakehurst. Buffalo Courier-Express.

Farm Accounting

Importance Of Having A Record Of All Business Transactions

Modern farming is a business and to be successful should be conducted in a businesslike manner. Farming has developed to the stage where it is a commercial enterprise in which the character of the management largely determines income and profit. It involves the production and sale of commodities and the use of capital and the purchase of supplies and labour the same as most other kinds of business.

Present conditions in farming emphasize the importance to the farmer of having a record of his business transactions as well as a permanent record of other details of his farm enterprise to which he can readily refer. The problem of the farm is to meet conditions in such a way that his farm will give him the most satisfactory net returns, year in and year out, for the use of his investment, his labour and his managerial ability. Many farmers realize that some change or adjustment in their combination of enterprises or methods of management might increase their farm income. They may be unable, however, to determine what changes to make owing to a lack of records on which to base any changes in enterprises or methods.

A farm account book may be prepared from the King's Printer, Ottawa, at a nominal price. Schools of Johannesburg, South Africa, are crowded, and 1,000 children are on the waiting list.

Canned oatmeal is something new in cereals.

WHAT HO!

—By—
RICHARD CONNELL
By Arrangement With Thomas
Allen, Publisher, Toronto.

His one crumb of comfort was the thought that to be killed in action in the hunting field was a fate becoming a Hingley. He had seen in the village churchyard the tombstones of a number of the tribe who had died while riding boots on. Would he be beside them, he wondered, or in the grave in the lower garden Crump had dug for Elaine? These macabre speculations occupied his mind until he saw, looming large ahead of him, Lester's Wall. To Ernest it looked as high as the Great Wall of China.

He did the only thing he could do, which was to shut his eyes, hold his breath, and pray. He felt the rush of air as he rocketed through the atmosphere like a space-ship bound for Mars. There was a thump and a thud, and he opened his eyes. He was not surrounded, as he had expected to be, by cherubim and seraphim, or even by doctors and nurses. He did not smell a celestial aroma, or the etheric perfume of a hospital, but only the clean, invigorating, morning air, and he discovered that he was still aboard Fin McCool, and that Lester's Wall was behind him.

His success in surmounting the wall went straight to Fin McCool's head. Drunk with power, he decided to abandon the use of the force and devote his day to jumping all the walls in that part of the country.

Off he went, at a tangent, and Ernest went with him, part of him, and yet not exactly part of him, like a loose wheel on a diver.

The hunt went north and Fin went south. No chart of his course exists. Ernest never knew where he went. All he knew was that the walls came too quick to count. Fin would rush at them, careen over them and rush on, seeking new walls to conquer; or, if he liked a particular wall, he would wheel around and jump at it again; but at no time did he slacken his pace enough to permit Ernest to slip to the ground, and, by the time he had negotiated his seventh, or perhaps seventh-eighth wall, Ernest was too numb for voluntary motion.

It is certain that Fin elbowed back and once more jumped Lester's Wall for the Earl of Bingley, smoking a pipe on the spot near the wall where his mount had painfully deploiled him, was an astonished eye-witness. Country-folk rubbed their eyes at the sight of a big horse, possibly sceptical, jumping back and forth over their walls. The ride of Ernest Bingley passed into Somerset folklore and took its place in legend beside the rides of John Glyn, Paul Révere and Sheridan.

Fin McCool, having proved to the world and himself, that the drained Lester's Wall was a mere hummock to a leaper of his talent, roared on at a dizzy pace in search of bigger and better walls. He scented some where beyond Lester's Wall an obstacle worthy of him, and he raced through Kingsley's Copse with his throttle wide open.

It was a thick copse, bearded with underbrush and studded with trees and not at all an ideal bride-path, but Fin McCool ploughed through it like a love-sick mule—late for a try.

limb on an oak tree scraped Ernest off as neatly as a waiter brushes crumbs from a table cloth. Fin stroked on his merry way like a streamline express on a record-breaking coast-to-coast run. Ernest was left dangling in mid-air the way a train leaves a mail-bag on the crane of a village depot.

He scrambled up on the limb, which was as thick as the thigh of a wrestler, and perched there, trying to capture his lost breath and bearings. Far in the distance he heard the cry of the hounds. It seemed to be coming nearer. The fox must have doubled on its tracks. Ernest decided to copy the cat in the fable which demonstrated that a tree is the safest place to be in during a fox-hunt.

The hunt swept by, skirting the edge of the copse, and through the leaves he could see the color of their coats as they flashed past like a cavalcade of flamingoes.

Then, through the brush, came crashing a horse. Ernest's legs lightened in a scissor-hold on the tree-limb, for he thought it was the treacherous Fin McCool coming back to get him. Then he saw that it was a horse of a different color, a runaway which had bolted from the hunt and was charging along pell-mell heedless of the fact that dead ahead of it lay a deep and rocky ravine. The runaway's rider had flattened down close to the animal's neck to escape the bounds.

As the horse passed directly under Ernest, his hands shot down in a desperate grab and clutched curls. He somehow kept his grip and drew the squealing rider up to the limb beside him.

"Was Lady Rosa, and for a moment she clung to him, trembling and making little frightened sounds. "There, there now, Rosa," said Ernest, "you're all right."

"She pulled herself together quickly. "Yes, I'm all right," she said. "But what about Galahad?"

"Your horse?"

"Yes."

"He is all right, too," said Ernest. "He swerved just before he got to the gully."

"Where is Fin McCool?"

"In London, by this time, or Scotland."

"What are you doing in this tree?"

"Resting."

"Oh, Ernest, are you hurt?"

"Only my pride," he replied.

"Mine, too," said Rosa. "I can't think what got into old Galahad to make him run amok like that."

"Probably he was corrupted by Fin McCool," suggested Ernest.

"Shouldn't wonder. Whatever it was, he got out of control and here I am."

"So am I," said Ernest.

"Just like a couple of monkeys."

Ernest. "I hate to go, though. I guess I'll just sneak in the back-way and hide in my room."

"What? And miss the ball?" Ernest nodded gloomily.

"Let me help you down," he said. "Not yet. There's something I must tell you. I've had more comfortable seats than this tree, but at least we are alone here."

Her serious tone made him regard her anxiously.

"I hate a faker," she said. "So do I," said Ernest, dreading her next words.

"I mean a man who pretends to be something he isn't," she said. Now, thought Ernest, it's coming. He waited.

"Will you give me an honest answer to a plain question?" said Rosa. "I'll try to, Rosa."

"When did you last ride to hounds?"

"To-day."

"I mean before to-day," began Ernest.

"You needn't," she said. "I know the answer. It is 'Never.'"

He did not look at her. "Lots of people never have," he said.

"Have you done much horseback riding?"

"It depends on what you mean by 'much.'"

"Please don't quibble. How many times have you ridden?"

"Well," said Ernest, "there was Ralph—"

"I meant on a horse. He's an omnibus."

"There was Jacob."

"A jumper?"

"No," said Ernest, and he grew de-fiant, "Jacob was just a fat old plow-horse and I rode him in a pasture three or four times when I was ten, and my grandfather held me on at that. And that's all I've ever ridden in my life."

"You let us think you an experienced horseman."

"Sure I did," said Ernest. "I tried to fool you. And I got caught at it."

"Why did you hunt to-day? Don't you know it was a most foolhardy thing to do?"

"No long-legged hummock can call me yellow and get away with it," said Ernest.

"So that's why you risked your neck?"

"That and another reason."

"What other reason, Ernest?"

Ernest. "I picked an oak leaf and crumpled it in his hand."

"I wanted to make a hit with somebody," he said. "Back home we'd call it showing off."

"Whom did you expect to impress?"

"Never mind," said Ernest.

"You needn't act so kittenish, Ernest," Rosa said. "I know you mean me."

He looked at her now.

"Yes," he said. "I mean you, Rosa."

She plucked an oak leaf and began to twist it with her fingers.

"Oh, I know I fopped," went on Ernest. "I know I'm what you hate—a sheep in wolf's clothing."

"I don't hate you, Ernest," said Rosa.

"You despise me then," said Ernest.

"That and that's worse."

"I don't despise you," said Rosa. "I admire you."

"But how can you?"

A Strange Friendship

Story Of A Gorilla That Died Of A Broken Heart

"I suppose I am one of the few people who have experienced the friendship of a gorilla," said Nancy Hartman.

"His name was John Daniel, and he belonged to a Miss Cunningham. Some people will no doubt remember seeing him in the window of a London shop—a hat shop in Sloane Street. He was captured in French Congo, and eventually appeared for sale in a London store, Miss Cunningham who was, and still is, the most courageous and enterprising of women, decided to buy him and see if she could rear him. He was judged then to be between two and three years old.

"Against everyone's advice, Miss Cunningham decided to bring him up as near as possible as she would a child, and this she did. Whenever I called he used to meet me at the door, take my hand, and lead me straight to a chair and then climb up to my lap. He adored being nursed, and would sit quite still with his arms round my neck for any length of time and he was amazingly intelligent. If he wanted a drink he would fetch his mug and go to the tap and fill it. He would shut or open a window when told to.

"John had been about three years in London, and was of course growing larger and stronger every day. He was then between five and six years old, four feet two inches high, very broad and, as I have said, colorably strong. One day a wealthy American offered to buy him and take him back to Florida, where he was to have a huge cage and garden to himself. I was there when the American came for the first time to see John Daniel, and to make friends with him before he took him away.

"I think John had some premonition of the future. He wouldn't let the American come near him, and when he put his hand out to touch him, John snatched his handkerchief and scratched his hand. I had never seen John behave like that before. He always liked everyone, but from the first he took a dislike to that American, and it was the same every time he came."

"At last the dreadful day arrived, and John was taken away to begin his long journey to the States. From the moment he left Miss Cunningham he pined. He had a luxury cabin on board, and every sort of food to tempt him, but he never ate or slept, and by the time he arrived in New York he was seriously ill. Miss Cunningham was called for, and she started for America at once. But it was too late. John Daniel died of a broken heart three days before she reached him."—B.B.C. Listener (London).

The Meaning Of Peace

Two Characters, Harmony And Equality, Make Up Chinese Phrase

Interesting derivation of the Chinese phrase for "peace" was given to the Canadian Club at Saskatoon recently by Dr. Heng Chih Tao, Chinese educator.

The phrase was made up of two characters: One meaning harmony and the other equality. "Harmony" in itself was a compound of two characters: A rice plant and a mouth, which meant that when one had enough to eat, harmony existed.

Hence the full Chinese meaning of "peace" was for all to have enough to eat and for all to be treated equally.

Terrier Has Queer Habit

A terrier that will only turn to the left and never to the right is owned by K. Wyatt, of Port Stanley, Ont. The little dog has never been known to turn but in one direction, consequently arousing curiosity wherever it goes. Oddly enough, it will go through all sorts of manoeuvring to avoid a right-hand turn.

B.C. Defences

Report Says Armaments Being Taken From Halifax To Western Coast

"Halifax is being stripped rapidly of any semblance of defence against possible wartime attackers, the Halifax Chronicle said in a newspaper story. "Within recent weeks almost the entire armament of the city and port has been dismantled and shipped to the Pacific coast."

"Aside from Chebucto Head, where a lonely pair of 9.2 guns stand on guard for Canada, every battery in and about Halifax is without its armament. Even the Citadel has lost its armament, except for the noon salute cannon."

"From Fort Redoubt, from Fort Ogilvie, from the Armories, from McNab's Island, from the dockyard—wherever a gun was to be found that could still be used—the department of national defence has removed all the available machinery of war for the defence of British Columbia."

"The Bedford magazine and all other depots containing shells and ammunition of any kind have been cleaned out. Informed sources state that nothing in Halifax has been spared that might serve to defend British Columbia from possible invaders."

"In future four destroyers will be based at Esquimaux on Vancouver Island, and two at Halifax. It is understood 80 naval families now stationed in Halifax will leave in a few weeks for the west coast, where they will reside henceforth."

"Three years at least will elapse before it will be possible to commence restoration of Halifax defences and four or five years before authorities will be in a position to increase fortifications beyond the strength hitherto maintained."

Perfect Imported Egg

Consumer In England Thinks Canada Has Produced It

Canada claims to have produced, after years of research and experiment, what is from the point of view of the consumer in England the perfect imported egg, says the Ipswich Independent. The first consignment of these eggs has just arrived in London—750 dozen—and they will be distributed to experts in various parts of the country, from whom opinions will be gathered. The housing and feeding of the poultry have been minutely watched, the eggs have been graded and tested, they have been sent over in special chambers kept at a fixed temperature and watched by vigilant C.P.R. officials, and they are being handled on this side with all the care usually bestowed on the most precious cargoes.

"We Dig Coal—Not Gasoline!"

This was the heading of an article published in the Fernie Free Press. It pointed out that people who live in mining towns, particularly merchants, who employ trucking companies to haul their freight are lessening employment for the men on whom they depend for business. It suggested that workers would be justified in using pressure against those who are so short-sighted as to jeopardize their interests, by refusing to deal with them.

The article gives a report of the experience of a mining town in the mid-western States, which had almost given up hope because of the inroads of trucking competition. A campaign was waged in favor of railroad haul-
